

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

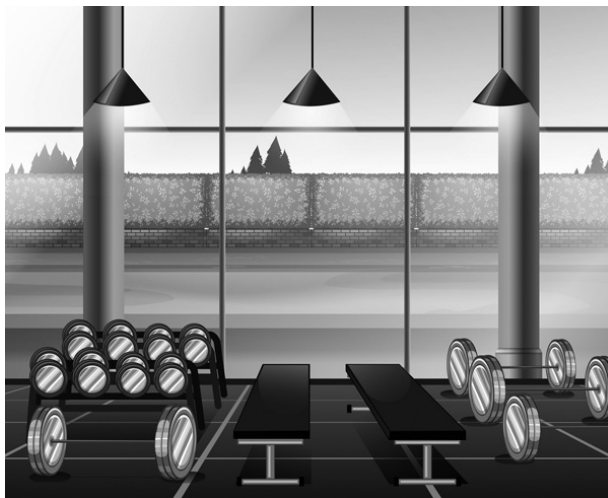

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Healthy hearts ... healthy minds!

Learning Outcome

Analyze issues relating to different topics and their solution in written and spoken situations according to work and social contexts.

Can Do Statements

- I can explain how the workplace health and safety procedures are.
- I can express necessity, duty, and advice.
- I can ask someone to do something.

Ask your partner:

- Is there a health program at your workplace? What does it include?
- Do you think it would be useful to have a health program at all workplaces? Why or why not?

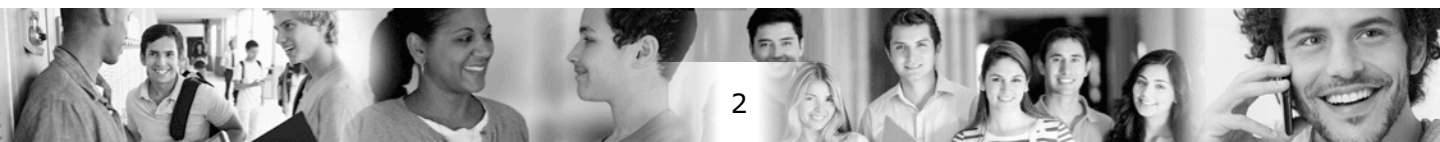

Let's Explore!

Mr. Brody talks with Kristi and Adam about the Workplace Health Program at BFP Publishing. They are on the right track!

* "On the right track" means headed in the correct direction or doing the correct thing.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Kristi: Good afternoon, Mr. Brody.
Boris: Good afternoon. How is your training going?
Adam: Very well. Ms. Walker got us to think about a lot of things.
Boris: Yes, she's very detail-oriented. You must be to work in publishing, you know.
Kristi: I hope we can live up to your expectations.
Boris: You mustn't worry about that.
Kristi: What shall we do now?
Boris: Now, I want to talk about a few company policies related to health. We are very proud to have our own Workplace Health Program.
Adam: That's interesting.
Boris: In this brochure, you will find information about how we support healthy living. It's a very multidimensional policy.
Adam: Do you think we should read it?
Boris: Yes, you should definitely read it. There is a section on healthy eating and active living. We have an employee recreational activity program.
Kristi: Do you think we ought to participate?
Boris: I hope you will. We get the cafeteria staff to serve healthy meals. We also enforce a non-smoking policy throughout the building.
Kristi: As a non-smoker, I must say I appreciate that.
Boris: We also believe that all employees need to strike a balance between their work and personal life. We offer stress reduction and time management workshops.
Adam: That's cool.
Boris: There's a chapter on ensuring a violence-free work environment. Of course, this means more than physical violence. It means eliminating psychological risk factors. Any problem must be signaled to your immediate supervisor, who fills out the appropriate form.
Kristi: Does the policy include harassment and bullying?
Boris: Absolutely. All of those issues are intimately tied to workplace health. We have professional counselors come in whenever necessary. Our employees needn't feel they are alone.
Adam: This all sounds fantastic. You should have other companies implement this policy.
Boris: Thank you. I must say I agree with you there.

Let's Practice!

Mr. Brody, Adam and Kristi talk about what is necessary or not necessary, and give advice.

Instructions: Read the dialogue. Underline the correct word to complete the sentence.

1. You must / needn't be very detail-oriented to work in publishing.
2. You need to / mustn't worry that we won't live up to your expectations.
3. We believe that all employees needn't / need to strike a balance between their work and personal life.
4. You should / must definitely read the Workplace Health Program.
5. Any problem must / needn't be signaled to your immediate supervisor, who fills out the appropriate form.
6. Our employees need to / needn't feel they are alone.

Let's Practice!

Adam and Kristi talk about asking or telling people to do things.

Instructions: Read the sentences. Classify them into the correct category by writing the corresponding number on the spaces below each category.

1. You should have other companies implement this policy.
2. Ms. Walker got us to think about a lot of things.
3. We get the cafeteria staff to serve healthy meals.
4. For lunch tomorrow, we will have a catering company supply the food.
5. We have professional counselors come in whenever necessary.
6. Mr. Brody got us to think about the Workplace Health Program.

Get + Person + Infinitive

--

Have + Person + Verb

--

Extension Activity

Create your own company health program.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Make a list of the things that were included in BFP's health program for employees in this lesson.
- Go online. Find other things that are sometimes included in company health programs.
- With a partner, discuss the ideas for a company health program. Which ones are very good? Which ones are not necessary?
- Create the best health program for a company. Write 150 - 200 words describing the health program.
- Proofread your text for correct spelling and punctuation.
- Read your text to a partner.

Self-Assessment

Yes No

I read about company health programs.

☐ ☐

I discuss ideas for a company health program.

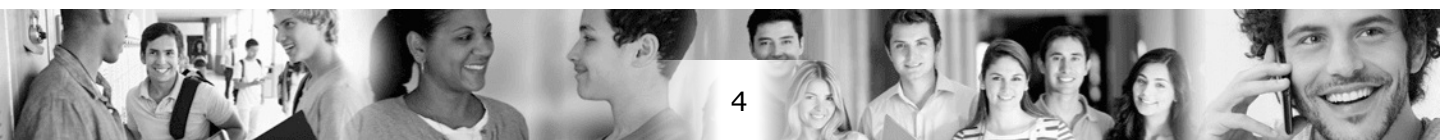

☐ ☐

I write a company health program.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- detail-oriented (adjective): attentive to small details
e.g. Ms. Walker is very detail-oriented.
- brochure (noun): a short document in the form of a small book giving factual information on a topic e.g. In this brochure, you will find information about how we support healthy living.
- non-smoker (noun): a person who does not smoke cigarettes e.g. As a non-smoker, I must say I appreciate that.
- strike a balance (expression): find a middle path between two things e.g. We also believe that all employees need to strike a balance between their work and personal life.
- immediate supervisor (noun): the person in the company who you report to and who evaluates you e.g. Any problem must be signaled to your immediate supervisor, who fills out the appropriate form.
- harassment (noun): the act of harassing (bothering, disturbing) in the things that are said or done e.g. Does the policy include harassment?
- bullying (noun): the act of trying to control a person by being intimidating or domineering e.g. The health program also includes measures to combat bullying.
- multidimensional (adjective): containing many different parts or aspects e.g. Our health program has a very multidimensional policy.

Learning Points

Causative Get and Have in the Active Pattern

You can use causative get and have in active and passive voices. Let's look at how to use the active pattern.

When you use causative get and have in the active voice, it has the meaning of "cause or order someone to do something".

The structure looks like this:

get + person + infinitive (to + verb) have + person + verb (infinitive without to)

I'll get the waiter to bring the bill.

I'll have the waiter bring the bill.

There is a slight difference in meaning between get and have in this structure. When you get someone to do something for you, it implies that you need to convince them in some way. Have is a little more neutral in meaning.

Examples:

- We get the cafeteria staff to serve healthy meals.
- We have professional counselors come in whenever necessary.
- You should have other companies implement this policy.

Learning Points

Asking for Advice: The Modals Shall, Ought to and Should

When you want to ask for advice in a workplace setting, you can use the modal verbs shall, ought to and should.

These modals, when used in this way, are a polite way of asking for advice. It is important to be as polite as possible when asking for advice in the workplace.

Look at the chart for the structures of shall, ought to and should for advice and some examples.

Modal	Structure	Example
should	Question word + should + subject Do you think I should ... ?	Do you think we should read it? ought to	Question word + should + subject Do you think I ought to ... ?	Do you think we ought to participate? shall Shall is not used as often as should and ought to .	Question word + should + subject	What shall I do?

